LAS VEGAS, Aug. 4, 2016 /PRNewswire/ -- In 2015 Caesars Entertainment Corporation (NASDAQ:CZR) and related entities generated $4.4m of contributed value for every $10m in revenue, triple the estimated average of U.S. corporations, according to the company's seventh annual Corporate Citizenship Report. The report, entitled "Connecting for #Citizenship," covers 2015 and the first half of 2016, and showcases the positive impact on guests, employees, the environment and its communities as a result of Caesars' many corporate responsibility initiatives.

"Operating responsibly is the foundation of our business at Caesars," said Mark P. Frissora, President and CEO of Caesars Entertainment. "We add value by empowering our employees to volunteer in their local communities, by creating memorable experiences for our guests, and by working towards our ambitious environmental and social impact goals. We made significant progress in 2015 and will continue to set - and raise - the corporate responsibility bar for the gaming industry."

Delivering Economic Value

As part of its contributions to communities across the U.S., in 2015 Caesars paid almost $1.56 billion in taxes and licensing fees to local, state and federal government entities. These payments to government constitute a significant portion of the $9 billion of enterprise-wide economic value, which also includes employee salary and benefits, payments to vendors and community giving, created by the company last year.

Employee Community Service

Caesars employees also contribute value to their communities, including non-financial activities. For example, 45% of employees engaged in volunteer activity, versus the national average of 25%.

Diversity & Inclusion

Caesars maintains a strong emphasis on diversity; 42% of managers are women, compared to the national average of 39.5%, and 34% are employees from minority groups, versus 22.6% nationally. For the ninth consecutive year, Caesars received a perfect score for the Human Rights Campaign Corporate Equity Index.

Environmental Strategy - CodeGreen

Continuing its progressive success since its base year of 2007, Caesars again delivered award-winning performance against its CodeGreen environmental performance metrics and 2025 goals. The CodeGreen initiative saves over $50m annually in avoided utility costs realized through efficiency improvements and waste diversion. Highlights of the company's progress include:

- 23% energy reduction per air-conditioned 1,000 square feet since 2007;
- 28% greenhouse gas emissions reduction per air-conditioned 1,000 square feet since 2007;
- 20% water use reduction per air-conditioned 1,000 square feet since 2008;
- 28% reduction in total waste in 2015 and 38% of waste diverted away from landfills

Responsible Business

Caesars' Responsible Gaming program includes research, innovative technology and providing practical tools and comprehensive training for all its staff. In addition, the company applies self-exclusion across all its properties, preventing guests who self-exclude at one property from gambling at other Caesars properties. Caesars has 796 Responsible Gaming Ambassadors at properties around the country, and 45,000 employees were trained in RG in 2015.

Caesars, which hosts nearly 16,000 meetings each year, also strengthened its Responsible Meetings program by launching a "Meetings for Good" option, whereby Meetings customers can enrich their event by contributing to the efforts of local non-profit partners. Caesars has certified 100% of its sales managers in its Responsible Meetings protocol.

Investing in Employee Training and Wellbeing

In 2015 Caesars invested more than 1.6 million hours in employee training and development, and reimbursed more than $550,000 to employees for education and tuition.

Caesars award-winning Wellness Rewards program has consistently achieved high participation rates of more than 80% of eligible employees and their covered spouses, double the median rate of 40% reported by companies of similar size. Collectively, employees have reduced their cholesterol by 29%, and blood pressure by 10% over the last 5 years, and, on average participating employees save more than $2,500 per year on their plan contributions. Plan management, including Wellness Rewards, contributed to the company's benefit cost savings of more than $122m over the past four years.

A Global Citizen

As part of a review and update of its material impacts, Caesars undertook a mapping process to the global Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). It selected eight of the 17 SDGs where the company has already made significant contributions and can expand its impact in coming years.

Public Policy Advocacy

Caesars has published its public position on relevant issues including Equality, Climate Change, Immigration Reform, Corporate Transparency, Healthcare, Responsible Suppliers, and Human Trafficking. In accordance with World Resources Institute, CDP and other climate leaders, the company has committed to science-based carbon reduction goals.

"In our connected world, being a responsible business requires us to look beyond traditional borders," said Jan Jones Blackhurst, Executive Vice President of Government Relations and Corporate Responsibility for Caesars. "It's critical for Caesars to align with the United Nations' 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, specifically in the areas where we can make a difference, such as gender equality, climate action, and sustainable cities and communities."
