The Shoptalk conference will be held at The Venetian in Las Vegas from March 3-6, 2019, with Macy's, Inc. executives slated to discuss the breadth of the brand's omnichannel customer experiences, vendor diversity, technology enhanced customer product experiences and next-generation retail formats.

"With a customer base that is largely female, it is imperative to our business that our executive ranks reflect the communities we serve. Diversity and Inclusion are core to our success, and I am so proud to have this incredible lineup represent us at this year's Shoptalk conference," said Jeff Gennette, Macy's, Inc. chairman & chief executive officer. "Macy's storied history of strong female leadership dates back to 1860, two years after our founding, when Margaret Getchell became the company's first female executive, working directly with R.H. Macy. It's a legacy we are very proud of and track record we intend to continue."

On opening day, Sunday, March 3 at 2:30 p.m. PT, Nata Dvir, executive vice-president, general business manager of beauty, will kick off the Macy's, Inc. team presentations on a panel entitled Technologies Enabling New Physical Experiences. At 3:15 p.m. PT, Macy's, Inc. chief financial officer, Paula A. Price will keynote a track presentation focused on Changing Retail Formats and Footprints, and closing out the day's activities at 5:45 p.m. PT will be a mainstage keynote from Jill Ramsey, Macy's chief product and digital revenue officer and Rachel Shechtman, Macy's brand experience officer, founder of STORY.

On Monday, March 4 at 10:00 a.m. PT, Shawn Outler, Macy's, Inc.'s executive vice-president, chief diversity officer, will present at a panel discussion focused on New Approaches to Sourcing and Merchandising. Shawn is also the founder of The Workshop at Macy's, the first retail vendor development program of its kind, geared towards minority and women-owned businesses.

The company will also be represented by a host of senior leaders across the technology, business development and digital customer experience teams who will attend the multiday event to meet with potential vendors, learn about emerging trends and participate in networking events.

Macy's strong line-up of female executives presenting at Shoptalk is yet another reflection of the company's commitment to diversity and inclusion across all aspects of the business.
