OAKLAND, CA--(Marketwired - Nov 20, 2014) - The Clorox Company (NYSE: CLX) has earned a top rating of 100 percent on the Human Rights Campaign's 2015 Corporate Equality Index (CEI). The CEI is a nationally recognized benchmarking survey and report on corporate policies and practices related to lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender (LGBT) equality in the workplace.

Since 2006, Clorox has earned a perfect rating on the CEI and has been named one of the Best Places to Work for LGBT Equality.

"This recognition is a direct testament to the diligent work by our employees to create an inclusive environment that values every individual's unique experiences and perspective," said CEO Benno Dorer. "Our employees can better represent and focus on the needs of the consumers we serve when they know they are supported and can bring their entire self to work every day."

The 2015 index rated 972 businesses in the report, which evaluates LGBT-related policies and practices including non-discrimination workplace protections, domestic partner benefits, transgender-inclusive health care benefits, competency programs and public engagement with the LGBT community. Clorox's success in meeting all of the CEI's criteria resulted in its 100 percent ranking and its designation as a Best Place to Work for LGBT Equality.

Fostering diversity and inclusion is foundational to the company's strong employer brand: "OurClorox -- powered by everyone's leadership every day." It's also a key part of Clorox's focused efforts to preserve and nurture the company's culture. This includes support of the company's five employee resource groups (ERGs) -- LGBT, African-American, Asian/Pacific, Hispanic and women -- and the company's recently introduced VetNet, a network of Clorox military veterans. These groups enable individuals to connect with one another and collectively with Clorox. They also help to foster professional relationships, provide insights on multicultural marketing and supplier diversity initiatives, and support Clorox's diversity-related community outreach programs. Open to all employees, each ensures every employee has access to support, inspiration, and personal and professional development.
