"Kathy is an outstanding leader who has done a terrific job overseeing our regulatory and legislative team through an ever-changing political climate," said Mr. Cohen. "Her sage counsel has not only cemented her status as one of the most respected regulatory professionals in Washington, but also as a trusted colleague here at Comcast. She is highly deserving of this promotion for the superb work she has done for our company and our industry."

Ms. Zachem joined Comcast in 2008 and has led the company's advocacy before federal agencies and state regulatory and legislative bodies. Prior to Comcast, she was a founding partner of the law firm Wilkinson Barker Knauer, LLP, where she practiced communications law for 23 years.

Ms. Zachem is the recipient of numerous awards and accolades. In 2016, she was a recipient of the NCTA – The Internet & Television Association's prestigious Vanguard Award for Government & Community Relations. In 2014, she was named a "Wonder Woman" by Multichannel News, and in 2012 she was one of Legal Momentum's "Aiming High" awardees.

Ms. Zachem is a graduate of the George Mason University School of Law and has a joint bachelor's degree in economics and political science from George Washington University.
