

Law firm's internal probe led to Murdochs' decision to let Bill O'Reilly go - WSJ
Thursday, April 20, 2017 02:36:32 AM (GMT)

- In a front-page article, people familiar with the matter tell the WSJ that O'Reilly's new contract with Fox News allowed the company to get rid of O'Reilly if additional harassment complaints, which the probe produced, came out.
- A person close to the situation tells the WSJ that as the law firm began to tell 21st Century Fox management what it had found, O'Reilly's support steadily fell.
- The article reminds readers that some are encouraging regulators to examine whether 21st Century Fox would be a fit owner for Sky (SKY.LN), given Fox News's recent sexual-harassment issues.

Reference Links:

- Wall Street Journal

Industries: Broadcasting & Cable TV

Primary Identifiers: TFCFA-US, SKY-GB

Related Identifiers: TFCFA-US, SKY-GB

Subjects: Articles, Reports, Conjecture, Media Summaries, Published Reports

Related Stories:

- Statement from 21st Century Fox regarding Bill O'Reilly