"We are excited to partner with eBay to offer one-of-a-kind experiences and products from our supporters across the entertainment industry and around the world to the public," said Fatima Goss Graves, co-founder of the TIME'S UP Legal Defense Fund and President and CEO of the National Women's Law Center. "Each contribution will especially help low-wage workers connect to the legal resources they need to fight against sexual harassment. This scourge continues to thrive across all industries—and it's time to tackle it. We are dedicated to creating a reality where no worker must endure abuse for a paycheck."

"Equality, safety, diversity, inclusion and purpose are integral to eBay's culture and business," said Brenda Halkias, General Manager, eBay for Charity. About the TIME'S UP Legal Defense Fund

The TIME'S UP Legal Defense Fund, which is housed at and administered by the National Women's Law Center Fund, connects those who experience sexual misconduct including assault, harassment, abuse and related retaliation in the workplace or in trying to advance their careers with legal and public relations assistance. The Fund will help defray legal and public relations costs in select cases based on criteria and availability of funds. Donations to the TIME'S UP Legal Defense Fund are tax deductible through the Direct Impact Fund, a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization or through the National Women's Law Center, a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization. The initiative was spearheaded by actors and others in the entertainment industry, attorneys Tina Tchen and Roberta Kaplan, and top public relations professionals. Women in Hollywood came together around their own experiences of harassment and assault, and they were moved by the outpouring of support and solidarity against sexual harassment from women across sectors. This inspired them to help create a Fund to help survivors of sexual harassment and retaliation in all industries—especially low-wage workers. They worked together in an historic first to design a structure that would be both inclusive and effective.
