

Tesla announces management changes including the appointment of Jerome Guillen as "President, Automotive"
Friday, September 07, 2018 09:02:51 PM (GMT)

- Excerpts from the blog:
 - We are about to have the most amazing quarter in our history, building and delivering more than twice as many cars as we did last quarter.
 - Jerome Guillen has been promoted to President, Automotive, reporting directly to me. In his new role, Jerome will oversee all automotive operations and program management, as well as coordinate our extensive automotive supply chain.
 - Kevin Kassekert has been promoted to VP of People and Places, with responsibility for Human Resources, Facilities, Construction, and Infrastructure Development.
 - Chris Lister joined Tesla last year and was key to solving our production problems at the Gigafactory and ramping Model 3 production. He is being promoted to VP, Gigafactory Operations.
 - Felicia Mayo, Sr. HR Director and head of our Diversity and Inclusion program, has been promoted to VP, reporting to both Kevin and me.
 - Laurie Shelby, Tesla's VP, Environmental, Health and Safety (EHS) will also report directly to me.
 - Cindy Nicola, VP of Global Recruiting, will report to both Kevin and me.
 - Finally, Dave Arnold has been promoted to Sr. Director, Global Communications, overseeing Tesla's communications team.
