

Arbitrators order American Apparel to pay $3M to resolve sexual-harassment claims - WSJ
Wednesday, June 10, 2015 03:20:50 AM (GMT)

- Citing court documents, the WSJ reports that arbitrators issued the order with regards to sexual-harassment and defamation complaints filed in 2011 by former employees and models against ex-CEO Dov Charney and American Apparel.
- The article says that the awards appeared in court documents earlier this year, but were not publicized.
- A company spokesman tells the WSJ that insurance basically paid the money.

Reference Links:

- Wall Street Journal

Industries: Retail (Apparel)

Primary Identifiers: APPCQ-US

Related Identifiers: APPCQ-US

Subjects: Articles, Reports, Litigation, Media Summaries

Related Stories:

- American Apparel warns about potential bankruptcy -- Financial Times