For the sixth consecutive year, Campbell Soup Company (NYSE:CPB) has earned a perfect score of 100 percent on the Corporate Equality Index, as measured by the Human Rights Campaign (HRC), the largest lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender (LGBT) civil rights organization in the U.S.

“We are honored to again be among the top companies recognized by the Human Rights Campaign Foundation,” said Kim Ryan, Campbell’s Vice President, Global Diversity & Inclusion. “This recognition demonstrates our commitment and ongoing efforts to attract and retain a diverse and inclusive global workforce. We believe that creating a supportive workplace where employees can truly be themselves enables us to be a stronger, high-performing organization and reflects the consumer base we want to serve today and tomorrow.”

Now in its 13th year, the index is the Human Rights Campaign Foundation's annual report card of corporate America's treatment of LGBT employees, consumers and investors. Businesses are rated on a scale of 0 to 100, based on the existence of corporate policies that support LGBT people through anti-discrimination protection, domestic partner benefits, diversity training, affinity groups, and LGBT-specific engagement efforts.

Campbell earned a perfect score and the distinction of “Best Places to Work for LGBT Equality.” Campbell's score also earned the company a spot on the HRC's Buying for Equality 2015 list, a guide to businesses, products and services that support LGBT equality.
